

Piqosity (pique + curiosity) is a website for students to get individualized, adaptive practice for the ACT¹, new P/SAT², and Upper Level ISEE³ standardized tests.

Student Dashboard

Students can work through more than 6,700 practice questions that are tailored to their individual strengths, weaknesses, and goals. These questions are from previously released exams and educator self-publishers; teachers can even contribute their own questions.

Educators can create classes, add students, and monitor their pupils' progress in real time. Piqosity returns valuable time to educators and enables differentiated instruction.

With Piqosity, educators no longer have to scrape together practice material from multiple different sources, nor do they have to teach every student the same material regardless of individual strengths, weaknesses, and goals.

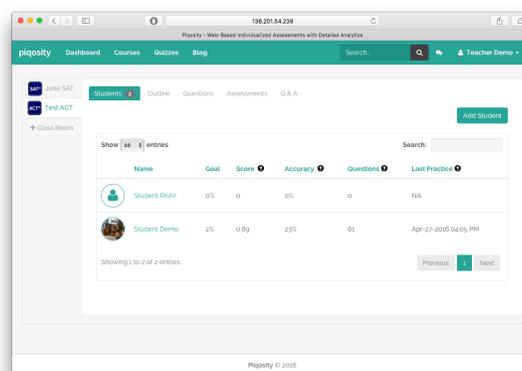

Supporting Educators

Piqosity is a supplement to good teaching and mentoring; it does not supplant the role of the tutor or teacher. Although many questions contain thorough answer explanations, students will need support to remediate or explore new skills and learn from their mistakes.

Piqosity is a cutting-edge, web 2.0, machine learning web application currently in beta. As such, there are no fees to use any of its features. We only ask that you provide your feedback so that we can develop the product that you need.

How to Use Piqosity as an Educator

1. Have students create their own learner account
2. Create an educator account
 - a. Add a class
 - b. Invite students to join your class
 - c. Ensure students accept the invitation
3. Instruct students to work at their own pace in their learner accounts and monitor their progress in your educator dashboard
